

The 'Censurous' Women

In what has been called a "political maneuver" by two women trustees of the Jefferson Elementary School District their three male colleagues have publicly censured them over their failure to approve some $57,400 in outstanding warrants.

The action came Friday in the wake of trustees Dorothy Adams and Beverly Forrester's decision not to approve the warrants at a regular board meeting.

Both Adams and Forrester said they had reservations about several of the warrants. Until they were given sufficient information of what they constituted by JESD Superintendent Frank L. Greenwood at a public meeting they would refuse to act on them.

The responsibility for acting on the warrants was taken out of their hands Friday when trustee Adams—Edward Tomaseillo, Albert Collett and James Cranna—met and approved the warrants.

Following this brief action, Tomaseillo introduced a motion asking both women trustees be censured for their inaction on the warrants. This was seconded by Cranna and passed by all three trustees.

It was explained that the women had failed to uphold the responsibilities of a board member by refusing to act on the warrants.

"Payments of bills due people providing services and materials and also the various obligations of this district" are responsibilities of a board member, it was explained.

Had they wanted to get details about the warrants consisted of what they had ample time before the meeting to check them out, the three trustees agreed.

Mrs. Adams said she feels questioning of expenditures of public funds by the district is also her responsibility.

On May 9, 1972, Mrs. Adams said, "The Board delegated to the superintendents by the vote of Mr. Tomaseillo, Mr. Collett and Mr. Cranna, decision-making authority. The superintendents were given the authority, subject to ratification by the board, to conduct business and enter contracts on behalf of the district."

"Mrs. Forrester and I voted 'no' then, and I have no intention of tacitly approving any contracts of which I have no knowledge. The superintendent should keep such ratifications off the agenda until he is certain his three members will be in attendance," Mrs. Adams said.

One of the warrants that "bothered" the two trustees consisted of an expenditure of some $8,000 for fire wall construction at the Fernando Rivera portable classrooms.

"When this was first discussed it was $6,000. Now it is $8,000 more. I wanted this explained," Mrs. Adams said in reply to questions asked by this newspaper as to why she failed to act on the warrants last week.

Both Forrester and Adams said they felt the censure action might be illegal and in conflict with provision of the Ralph M. Brown Act which governs such meetings.

However, a spokesman for the San Mateo County District Attorney's Office said inasmuch as the Board of Directors is the only one on the meeting agenda—it would be hardpressed to pursue such an avenue.

On the subject of her failure to comply with the responsibilities of a board member, Mrs. Adams said:

"Nowhere in the statutes are board members required to instruct the superintendent's workday with privately asked and answered questions. Nor would the separate visits of

San Bruno Seeks Bids For Gyms

The San Bruno Park School Board Monday night approved a resolution calling for bids to build the long-awaited gymnasiums at Parkside and Engvall intermediate schools.

Bids will be opened January 15 with a 180-day limit for completion of the projects. The gyms will thus be ready for use at the fall semester of 1973.

Architect John Worsley showed a scale model of the gyms to the board. Some $800,000 has been budgeted for the project—proceeds of sale of the unneeded Glenview School site and part of the North Brae School site to the Division of Highways. The money may be used only for capital expenses, according to Assistant School Supt. F. H. Jackson.

A report on noise abatement at Engvall School was held over to the December 18 meeting. Administrative Asst. Ben Barron reported that Division of Highways Engr. Jim Rae had not yet come through on his report on plans to screen the noise from the projected Route 380 to be built through Crestmoor Canyon.

Trustees accepted the resignation with regret of Mrs. Elva Ledwith, library secretary. She came to work for the school district 16 years ago as secretary at El Crystal School.

Assistant Supt. F. H. Jackson reported on the Dent Bill, covering (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Don't Raze Eastern Section DC Homes, Association Asks

The Daly City City Council, acting as the City's Redevelopment Agency, on Monday again heard from representatives of the group calling itself the Original Daly City Protective Association asking that asserted plans for razing of homes in the eastern sector of the city be scrapped.

They were assured by Mayor Bernard Lyett that no such plans were now in the offing.

And when final reports, expected next week, are received from the Redevelopment Agency's 25 member citizens' advisory committee the spokesmen for the ODCPA group will be contacted.

Lyett told the more than 200 persons packing the City Hall in the heart of the proposed target area.

Simon, punctuating every phrase with his hands, said in concluding his talk before Monday's four-member council.

"Lord, if this is progress, stop. You (the council) are the only ones that can stop that ball—of destruction."

Others have experienced this same trap in the assessed valuation of their property the council was told from the floor.

They asked why.

Conrad Pavellas, leader of the ODCPA group, said he himself had gone to the San Mateo County Assessors' Office and checked the records. Pavellas said he was satisfied the Assessors' Office "is doing a competent job."

Others appearing before the council voicing concern over redevelopment included Rev. Charles Hamilton of the Calvary Hill Baptist Church and Rev. Hosen Spear of the Second Baptist Church on Wellington Avenue.

All reiterated their opposition to the makeup of the Board's Citizens' Advisory Committee, appointed by the city council, calling it an "unrepresentative body."

Rev. Soares asked that the council set up a greater community participation on the advisory committee.

He was told by City Manager David Rowe, also top staffer for the Agency, that until such time as a positive decision had been made on whether redevelopment would be undertaken no such commitment could be made.

Rowe said a 120-page report was expected from the present Redevelopment Agency next Tuesday. The contents will be made public immediately.

Rowe said: "We are holding you (the council) responsible to us for all action taken by the DCRB," Spear informed the Board.

You are the only ones that can stop this iron ball of progress which I call the iron of destruction."

Simon told of how people huddled in their homes waiting for the wreckers' ball to crash down on their heads, destroying all their possessions.

Rather than have this in Daly City Simon called for the council to "help us to rise up to a higher level of friendship" and to "open your arms and your hearts."

Others were less eloquent in their presentation.

One woman homeowner wanted to know why taxes on her property had gone down. She felt by having her taxes lowered, along with the assessed valuation of the property, authorities could move in and buy up her land for "practically nothing."

Planners Act on the Crystal Springs Terrace Apartments

San Bruno planners took Monday night what they hoped would be their final action in settling the coming 65-unit Crystal Springs Terrace project, a 450-unit apartment project started by a builder and being completed by another.

The planners approved a 17th condition requiring Samson Inc. to pay the difference between $200,000 and their actual costs for off-site improvements on Crystal Springs Road.

The principal such improvement consists of a pathway or sidewalk along Crystal Springs Road from the project to City Park.

In other action, the planners frowned on two apartment projects involving one for parking, such parking is permitted only where there are studio apartments.

John Callicotte presented plans for a nine-unit apartment house at Cupid and Terrace Avenues. Planner Jack Maloney pointed out that all though these apartments had no separate bedrooms, they still had space that could be used for separate bedrooms. After some discussion, Callicotte asked that the matter be put off to December 18. His request was granted. Neil Vannucci, who presented similar plans for a five-unit apartment house at 623 Green Ave., was not so lucky. The planners flatly denied the project.

Three new businesses were approved for sale of used articles.

Planners approved an application by James Tassos, Millbrae Realtor, for a use permit to permit sale of antiques and used furniture at 597 and 599 San Mateo Avenue—right on the corner of Angus Avenue. The permit also would allow for refinished, damaged, antiques and furniture. Tassos must cooperate with the property owner in beautification of San Mateo Avenue, and to repair the front of the building to accent its architectural style, by May 1.

They also approved the application of F. Darreduague of San Mateo for use of a 94 by 75 foot lot on El Camino Real and Sylvan Avenue for used car sales.

They provided that the land be kept from the corner be extended for a total of 55 feet along El Camino Real.

The third application was one from Stanley L. Reich of San Mateo for an unusual type of business, for the large site on El Camino Real between City Hall and Jenevieve Avenue. He wanted to rent space to owners of private cars so they could sell their cars there. The planners approved the use.

In addition, planners approved three environmental impact reports—for the Evergreen Apartments in Pacific Heights, for the 26-townhouse project in Portola Highlands, and for the proposed garden-offices on the site of Avansino-Mortensen nursery on Sneath Lane.

A Member Drive by DC Chamber

The Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce kicked off a massive membership drive to day aimed at bolstering the rolls of the organization.

Members of a Chamber task force, headed by Businessman Frank Spadarella, will be contacting all business and professional firms in the community in coming days.

Billboards and other advertising media will also be used to spell out the leadership that the Chamber has in the past provided and can continue to do in the future, Chamber president Paul Hupf said.

The present Daly City Chamber has grown from a small group of interested business people in 1964 to an organization of more than 175 business and professional firms in the greater Daly City area, encompassing the Colma, Broadmoor and surrounding unincorporated areas of the city.

Hupf, a local attorney and city councilman, said the present organization is representative of the "total community" of almost 100,000 residents and a business community whose sales now exceed $150,000,000 annually.

"Within the next year BART will commence operations to link Daly City, Excelsior, and the Peninsula and freeway service to and from our area began about ten years ago and has now been completed," Hupf explained.

Daly City has grown greatly and will experience even more growth and significant change. It has greater potential for commercial growth now than ever before," he said.

Interested firms desiring to join the Chamber are asked to direct inquiries to Chamber manager Pete Markovich, 6454 Mission Street, Daly City 94023, Hupf advised.

The proposed ordinance, fruit of several years of agitation and research, makes two exceptions to the limit. A person may keep a litter on the premises for four months after birth. In cases where a person may have "three little puppies," he may apply for a kennel permit, obtain approval from the health officer, humane officer and city planner, with appeal to the city manager.

As it was, the council devoted a good deal of discussion to a second dog matter, a resolution requiring that all dogs must receive anti-rabies vaccine before they can obtain their dog license. They finally approved it, 4-0, with at least one very reluctant yes vote.

Appearing to protest both the dog limit and the compulsory vaccination was Stanley E. Mahy, chairman of the San Bruno Chapter of Pets and Pals. He pleaded that the dog limit matter be held over to the United States was confirmed as having contacted rabies. He indicated that the compulsory vaccine was being pushed by the "people who had the most to gain from the resolution."

Shaw said that the county holds periodic vaccination clinics which charge just $2 for vaccination. The council, he said, had an obligation to heed the warning of the department of public health.

In joining the others to vote for the resolution, Aherm shrugged. "I have no choice."

Pedestrian Hit by Car

A pedestrian is in critical condition in Mary's Help Hospital today after being struck by a car on Interstate 28, between San Bruno and South San Francisco at 10:15 p.m. Monday.

The victim was tentatively identified from a paper found in his pocket as Robert Howard, 38, Orville. However, authorities are unsure of his identity because he has been unconscious since hit.

According to the California Highway Patrol, the victim was walking on the freeway, Patricia Yamaguchi, 50, of 650 Twenty-ninth Avenue, San Francisco, failed to see the man until it was too late. Her car struck him. CHP officers said.

S.S.F. Police Station Site Before Board

By JACK BIK

Another hurdle has been passed in relocating South San Francisco's police station at Grand and Chestnut Avenues.

It will now be up to the council to initiate acquisition of all or part of the 10-acre site now used for truck farming. Only three acres are actually needed for the station, according to architect George Avanesian.

Opposing the change in site, at last Monday night's planning commission hearing was Planner Daniel Pass. He asserted that moving the site away from downtown would mean the urban core as well as eroding the "residential order and amenity of the Sunshine Gardens and Grand neighborhoods."

He feared the proposed site would encourage commercial and high density land speculation along Chestnut and Grand Avenues.

However, Police Chief Sal Rosano, retorted that the survival of the core "does not depend upon the police facility because it has no real commercial effect on the city."

Residents will have easy access to the station, he added, because it intersects with major arteries.

Architect Avanesian said that the proposed site is close to the county courthouse "and the police department does most of its work with that body and not city hall."

The planners voted to approve the Grand and Chestnut site in response to the recommendation of the capital improvement subcommittee.

The major business of the council Monday night, however, is expected to be concerned with flood problems against the City Mgr. Gale Dreshbach and Fred Hull, who heads the Department of Ecological Development, will have reports on:

1. Progress of the Colma Creek project, in which the city has started proceedings to go ahead alone, rather than await the Army Engineer project.

2. Appointment of a citizen's committee on Colma Creek.

3. Appointment of a citizen's committee on the separate Crestwood Drive problem in Sunshine Gardens.

4. A proposal by Councilman Bill Borba to file suit against Colma, San Bruno and Daly City to have them halt construction within the Colma Creek watershed, until the flood problem is solved.

In addition, more claims for damages will be received. These include a $200,000 claim from the D.J. Simpson Co.

Councilmen will consider a petition signed by 85 residents urging that the present program at the Municipal Pool be continued unabated. The petition is in apparent response to a report by the VTV Engineering firm proposing reorganization of the Park and Recreation Dept.

RUTH FREEMAN SOLOMON, author of "The Eagle and the Dove," was recent speaker at the Press Club of San Francisco. She also spoke about her book, "The Candlesticks and the Cross," the locale of which was Czarist Russia. Seen (left to right), Mrs. John Varu, San Carlos; Ruth Freeman Solomon; Mrs. David Ben Dov, wife of the Consul General of Israel; and Mrs. Murray H. Freedman, chairman of the event. Daly City residents attending were Mmes. Herbert Morris, Charles Poggio, Eugene Randall, James Kennan, Constance Lange, Helen Concannon, K. G. Poulos and Floyd Osborn. "The Eagle and the Dove" will soon be made into a movie.

Amphitheatre Okayed Devil's Slide By Pacifica Board

In spite of a room full of angry Park Pacifica residents, the Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission voted in a special meeting Monday night to recommend retention of the amphitheater in the master plan for Frontierland Park.

However, they suggested that the location of the amphitheater be placed in a different location within the future park than the plan now calls for.

3rd Arrest In Bruno Operation

San Mateo Police Detective Richard Bona has added a third arrest to a recent "pigeon drop" bunco game case in which a 68-year-old woman was bilked of $2000.

The third arrest involved a 33-year-old man who gave his occupation as "musician." He is Eddie Williams Jr., 33, of Oakland. He is charged with grand theft and conspiracy to commit grand theft.

Bona, Detective Sgt. Richard Lust and Deputy District Attorney Stan Poling obtained the warrant and connected with Williams at his home yesterday.

He and his two alleged accomplices, 19-year-old Jennifer Michael, a part-time model, of Oakland, and Catherine Mary Welch, 25, of San Francisco, no occupation given, were to appear in San Mateo Central District Court today.

Both women, meanwhile, are being held to answer to Santa Clara County Superior Court on a similar charge. Bona reported.

The police search of Williams home produced a variety of items, clothing, wigs, and other paraphernalia. He is regarded as a "team leader" or "mastermind," and is being held on $25,000 bail. The two women are held on $5,000 bail.

And he said that in view of the recent increase in "pigeon drop" bunco games more elderly people should become aware of the way they can be hoodwinked.

He noted elderly women are usually the victims, and taken in tow by two other women. A third party usually lurks in the background, watching the proceedings, to make sure the fraud is not detected prematurely.

"We did not discuss it a great deal," he added. "We could just as well have gone the other way."

The Council agreed to leave it all out of the district, after it was noted that the property will still have some controls left.

Parker, who termed himself an expert on Proposition 20, since he had been campaigning over the working of the one against it, claimed that between the city's planned development zoning requirements, he still had which would govern development, he said.

They passed a resolution asking the state for action which would solve much of their problem. The purchase of all their beaches by the State Department of Beaches.

Meanwhile, they made one small concession to Occidental Petroleum Co., which is seeking to develop the northern half of Pedro Beach — a 19.7 acre site which includes the former Wander Inn.

James Parker, attorney for the Newport Beach-based corporation, asked that the prop-

In adopting the HPD ordinance later that night, the councilmen voted to exclude two other sites from it — the Pacifica Boys Club site of 3.4 acres and the 1.5 acre Buckman and Sheehan's Oceanview Inn site. The senior citizens' development is nearing completion, on Crespi and Coast Highway.

There was one final argument since he had been campaigning over the working of the one against it, claimed that between the city's planned development zoning requirements, he still had which would govern development, he said.

They voted to omit the phrase "if possible" in two places.

Cable TV Expansion

Sports play-by-play, local bowling and a variety program may soon be seen by viewers of the San Bruno city-owned cable television system.

Council on November 13 instructed City Engineer Leo Van Dusen to arrange an 8-week "experimental" program with Peninsula Sports, a radio, television productions firm in San Francisco.

Council held off final approval of the programming, until they've seen the specifics being offered, apparently because Councilman John Barnard expressed concern that approval of such a project was "very premature."

Devil's Slide Four-Lane Bypass Seen

The dispute between State Senator Arlen F. Gregorio and the State Division of Highways over the size of the proposed Devil's Slide bypass highway may be ending.

A Gregorio resolution that would scale down the project from cutting and filling for a potential six lanes from Linda Mar in Pacifica to Martin Creek near Montara passed the Senate Finance Committee yesterday and should be on its way to the Assembly in two days.

But Gregorio, who has been on a one-man campaign in Sacramento for over a year to cut down the size of the bypass said today he and the Division of Highways appear ready to reach a compromise.

Gregorio would drop his demands for a two-lane highway plus uphill truck passing lanes and agree to four lanes and the division would reduce the size of its cuts and fills to accommodate just the four lanes, Gregorio said.

"We're basically talking about a smaller cut," he explained.

"I think most people will agree that four lanes will handle all the expected traffic in the foreseeable future," he went on, adding that the four-lane right of way still would be wide enough for future public transportation.

The agreement, should it be reached, would be put into his resolution, Gregorio said.

This change in the bypass format would delay the project a few months at the most," the senator stated.

A group of Coastside residents and officials and some county staffers were in Sacramento yesterday on the matter.

A perfect Thanksgiving outfit not to wear home for Thanksgiving.

Fare it. Your taste in clothes is about 20 million light years away from your parents' taste in clothes. The things you think are comfortable, they think are sloppy. And a dress you find exceptionally feminine, they'll probably find exceptionally sexy. Yet the way we figure it, that's not bad — that's good. You like the new, soft feminine look? Papsies got it.

Police Arrest Suspect in Assault on School Custodian

A suspect in the assault on Benjamin Franklin School custodian in Daly City last week has been arrested by Broadmoor police, it was reported today. Elvin Kirby, 61, a custodian in the Jefferson Elementary School District, through a plate glass window after Kirby ordered the suspect and three juveniles to leave the school building shortly before 9 p.m. on November 14. Kirby suffered multiple lacerations of the face and arms requiring 55 stitches, shock and loss of blood in the incident. Police determined the three juveniles were not involved in the matter. They were released after questioning.

THE LARGEST group of new San Francisco International Airport security police officers ever sworn in at one time were deputized in Redwood City yesterday. The 13 officers are San Francisco police but also were deputized by the San Mateo County sheriff's office as a matter of routine, since the airport is in this county. Administering the oath was Assistant Sheriff Eugene Stewart, back to camera, while airport security chief Ed Nevin, right, looked on. The addition of the new men brings the airport security staff to a new level now required by the Federal Aviation Administration, but what that level is wasn't made public. (Post Photo)

San Bruno, Millbrae Fire Plan

One fire department for two cities is the idea being considered, carefully, by San Bruno and Millbrae City Councils.

On November 13, San Bruno Councilmen "endorsed in principle" a proposal by Fire Chief Herb Freitas that would allow joint response by Millbrae and San Bruno Fire Departments, to "structural emergencies" in either city.

Chief Freitas explained that "structural emergencies" include "anything that does structural damage, as opposed to grass, car or rubbish fires." There would be no additional money, manpower or equipment needed.

According to Chief Freitas, there would be "additional fire protection." He said there would be more manpower and equipment on fires "immediately," and the proposal would result in "tremendous saving."

The fire chief said the mechanics of the joint response to fires have not been worked out, but indicated that would not be too difficult to do since both departments are on the same radio frequency.

Mayor George Corey had high praise for the proposal. He called it an "important first step," and said both chiefs should be commended for doing this "apparently on their own."

Corey said it was "very unusual" when two cities could work something like this out "without building new facilities."

The next night, Millbrae Mayor Bernard Esser said: "I think it's great if the two cities can cooperate in joint protection of the people."

He admitted that he is "a little concerned about dissipating our limited strength," and other Councilmen agreed.

They agreed to work cautiously with San Bruno to investigate the possibilities, and Mayor Esser appointed Councilman Barney Spera as Millbrae's member of a joint committee.

Councilman Harold Purpus said an agreement for joint fire protection might lead to further cooperation, especially related to policing problems around Capuchino High.

Councilman Art Lepore applauded staffers who had worked out the tentative proposal, for "trying to come up with something constructive."

Terrifying Night for S.S.F. Girl

A 16 year old Westborough girl had a terrifying evening at home on November 11.

According to South San Francisco police, Kay Bertocchi had gone for the evening, leaving her 16 year old daughter and her younger brother at home, plus a friend of the daughter.

At about 10:30 p.m., the daughter heard the doorbell. She answered it, and three youths were standing outside. They pushed her aside, and began walking around the house, taking what caught their eyes. Stolen were $50 worth of collector's record albums, cash and other items.

Mayors Reject Harbor Vote

The San Mateo County Council of Mayors on Friday rejected a proposal to review the economic analysis made of Pillar Point Harbor by the county's Local Agency Formation Committee's staff.

The mayors met in Millbrae that night.

They heard Harbor District Attorney James M. Dennis make an urgent plea for a review of the LAFCO report. He charged the LAFCO staff failed to notify even the Pillar Point Harbor District officials when making the economic analysis to gain information.

Dennis' appeal, however, fell not only on deaf ears but on mostly hostile minds, it was reported.

Dennis questioned the legal right of LAFCO to become involved in the harbor's future plans noting the people voting in 1970 to retain the district.

The attorney asserted that there are "glaring defects" in the LAFCO report in analyzing benefits to be derived countywide in the future if the long sought development goes ahead.

Dennis asked the mayors to review the LAFCO staff report. He claimed there is reason to believe it is based on "petty jealousies and petty animosities" on the part of staff members.

"If you do not analyze this report, you can do a great deal of disservice to the people of San Mateo County," Dennis maintained.

Councilwoman Mary Henderson of Redwood City, LAFCO committee member, took special umbrage to Dennis' charge of the jealousies and animosities. She said his statements were entirely "improper."

Dennis replied the terms were his, and not those of the district board members.

Councilwoman Eleanor Bushbey of Portola Valley asked why the people of her community should be required to pay the countywide tax to maintain the Coasts harbor. She said it was "unfair" that the people of East Palo Alto "should be paying for boats over there."

"You are using the argument used in the time of Louis XIV," Mrs. Bushbey retorted, "that carriages create employment."

She said she could see a special assessment district to pay for the harbor, but not a countywide tax to pay for harbor improvements, and expressed thanks to LAFCO staff "for telling us when we are making mistakes."

Herbert Rhodes, representing the East Palo Alto Municipal Council, asked why the people of his community should have to pay a three-cent tax to support the Coasts harbor, "when many of them do not even have transportation to Redwood City."

Dennis appealed to the mayors to "consider" both sides, "You have not been brought into this dispute," he noted.

San Bruno Downtown Upgrading Detailed

San Bruno City Manager Gerald Minford Monday night gave a brief report on the progress of upgrading the city's downtown San Mateo Avenue.

He noted that the project is being spearheaded by a merchant's group, but pointed out the city has an interest because part of the renovation will include placement of new underground piping.

The proposal Minford explained to the council was basically the same, although much abbreviated, as that given merchants several weeks ago by architects Michael McDougall and Joseph Kourakis.

Councilman Neil Christal, a property owner on the street, said he "hasn't received a single card" to indicate any renovation plan was even being considered.

According to Christal, several other "owner-occupied" businesses on San Mateo Avenue have yet to be notified in writing that plans are being discussed.

However, Mike Mace, San Mateo Avenue businessman, said all tenants on the street were notified of the recent meeting that was held at city hall.

Christal's point was that if improvements of the street finally go to an assessment district, owners, both those on the street and the absentee landlords, will have the final say on the project. "Everybody should be notified," he said.

Mace said a special effort would be made to make sure every property owner, as well as area denar, is notified of future meetings regarding the proposal.

Mayor George Corey said it is "improper" for the council to let any section of the town decide — especially the downtown — on the project.

"It is the policy of this council to do everything to restore downtown," he said.

Minford said he was "optimistic" the steps that have been taken so far will lead to "tremendous improvement" in the downtown area.

Big Theft Loss; Owner Not Insured

A San Bruno burglary, including the theft of a truck, had a reported loss of up to $20,000, according to a police report.

Robert Arnold Vidmar, owner of Grafen Machine Works on San Mateo Avenue, told police his business was burglarized Monday night and in addition to the truck, a pickup, the burglars took tools, precision instruments and measuring devices.

Burlingame police about 8 a.m. yesterday found the empty truck parked at the Hyatt House in that city.

According to the police report, entrance to Vidmar's business was forced. The shop office was ransacked. Police said the burglar apparently loaded the stolen property into the pickup, which was parked inside the shop, and drove it away.

Vidmar told police he had no insurance coverage.

Postal Chiefs Say Yule Mail Will Go Through

Increased concern about this Western Region controlled National Association of Letter Carriers, rest room facilities are public," Ballard notes. "There wasn't any service any some post offices, conversely, during the rush hours, discovers what's going to be done in San Francisco has 114,000. Loc 1019, today said on cleaned floors are littered. Spencer says adding to the more!"

Christmas mail was voted to day by postal workers' union representatives in this area. The concern, they say, stems from the continuing fact that the work force cutback remains in effect, that mail is going to San Francisco for processing, that budgets are being slashed and there's a little hope of easing the workload and speeding mail delivery.

But, San Francisco regional office officials through a spokesman, Jerry Reynolds, manager communication, protested such is not the case. They say they're putting the postal service in this area on a cost-saving, efficient basis. They are saying that sending all mail from areas such as San Mateo, Palo Alto, Menlo Park, and San Francisco for processing, is easing the workload and saving money and helping deliveries.

At least one San Mateo resident has strong doubts. He forwarded a letter recently to The Times. It was postmarked October 10 in Burlingame. He received it at his home on Moonde Road on October 19, 2:45 p.m. The postage cost 21 cents. The letter writer notes it took nine days to move the letter less than 10 miles by first class mail.

Similar complaints are being received by letter carriers, their spokesmen noted today.

But, nestled regional officials protested that the complaints set forth in a recent article were unfair, that the changeover to automation will naturally encounter some problems. Part of the delay in delivery can be attributed to the fact that 10 percent of the people write the wrong zip code number, they say. And, it was noted that in San Francisco recently a pair of disgruntled employees were jamming the computer. He said they are now under indictment.

By and large, the spokesmen said postal employees have a good thing going. Many are retiring at higher pay than they would have before the reorganization of the postal system. Many are getting a chance to fill better jobs. Political appointments are a thing of the past.

But, postal officials and union representatives sharply disagree. They say political appointments are being translated into favoritism, that long-time service people are being nudged aside for others in top job appointments.

The figures on how many jobs are not being filled in San Mateo County or the Peninsula are not available from the regional office, Reynolds said. Each individual post office has to be checked.

They refer to a report of Postmaster General E. T. Klaseen, dated March 29, 1972, issued when he put the lid on new hiring. That means a job vacated by anyone who quits, retires, or otherwise leaves is not re-filled. Since March 33,000 postal workers have not been replaced nationwide. There are 700,000 postal workers in the nation.

Man Jailed In Argument

A South San Francisco woman arrested her rejected suitor Thursday in San Mateo after, police said, he climbed on the hood of her automobile and threw a liquor bottle through the windshield as she tried to drive away.

Police said Nancy Jane Hunter, 23, of the 300 block of C Street, South San Francisco performed a citizen's arrest after they arrived at the scene, a service station at 410 North El Camino Real, at 7:30 p.m.

Charged with assault and battery, assault with a deadly weapon and malicious mischief was Michael John Rudis, 24, of 333 Catalpa street, San Mateo. He was held in $1,000 bail by Central Municipal District Judge Thomas B. Caldwell.

Enrollment Up S.S.F. Schools

While most school districts in the area have been declining in enrollment, the South San Francisco Unified is struggling with growing pains.

Westborough Junior High's P.T.A. has been asked to give its views on a list of 13 alternate proposals for expansion of Westborough Junior High School, which is the school most beset by enrollment growth.

Contrary to previous patterns of growth, families with junior high school-age children are buying homes in the various home developments in the Westborough and Serramonte areas. In the past, the new children have been of elementary age. The 13 proposals have been by Supt. Paul Nielsen described as "realistic."

Nielsen noted that with construction in the neighborhood continuing, figures that have been used in the past for projecting growth might not hold true. Westborough Junior High already has 789 students, and is expected to reach 900 soon.

Although the district owns a 15-acre site for a Serramonte Junior High, it would require passage of a bond issue to build upon it. The site could be sold at an estimated $690,000, he noted. Sale of three other sites could bring $370,000.

Among other alternatives listed are:

1. Move six to eight relocatable units onto the Westborough site at the cost of $3200 per building. The district owns 71 relocatable rooms.

2. Lease or buy relocatable rooms, at a cost of $12,000 per room.

3. Staggered sessions. Some students and teachers will come to school periods 1 through 7; some will come periods 2 through 8.

It will entail a scheduling and management problem.

4. Raise class size in all four junior high schools.

5. Transport some of the students to another junior high. In another overcrowding problem, Frank Derfield spoke in behalf of a group of parents from El Rancho Elementary School, expressing concern at the overcrowding of the fourth grade classes. A fourth class had been eliminated in September when the grade enrollment only came to 89. It is now 92. After a long discussion, the trustees took no action. Board President Loraine Cooper Berg assured them, however, that if five more students enroll in fourth grade, an additional teacher would be assigned to El Rancho. She also asked staff to check on use of teacher aides.

Trustees did agree, however, to hire a new teacher for the "English as a Second Language" program at Martin Elementary School. A survey of non-English speaking students shows that Martin has more than 50 students needing "English as a Second Language" training.

They voted unanimously to support the Simi Valley Unified School District's proposed action to "seek a judicial resolution of the current inadequate system of state support for local school districts." They did not, however, choose to join Simi Valley as a co-petitioner to the legal action.

Simi Valley is asking the State Supreme Court for a writ of mandate against the state "to provide sufficient funding for the public schools . . . that would guarantee a quality education for each student . . . to instruct the legislature to enact meaningful tax reform and educational support legislation during the early months of the 1973 legislative session." The trustees granted approval for submission of a request for a grant to provide Parkway Junior High with an exemplary library.

Wednesday, Nov. 22, 1972 THE POST

Pacifica Planner Given Gust Post

Pacifica Planning Commission Donald M. Halverson was appointed new city councilman November 13, to fill the unexpired term of Nick Gust.

The term will run to April, 1974.

The appointment was made at an executive session immediately following Monday night's council meeting at which Gust offered his resignation. The session began at 12:45 a.m. Tuesday and ran on past 2 a.m. The appointment was not announced, however, until after Halverson was contacted and agreed to serve. Mayor Grace McCarthy held a city hall press conference at 4 p.m. to announce the appointment.

During the day, messages came in at the city hall, including telegrams and phone calls, backing the appointment of various persons to the city council. None of the callers suspected that the appointment had been made. Among those proposed were Janice Fulford and Jim Traener.

Mayor McCarthy explained that the various councilmen's schedules made it impossible for them to get together for a special meeting in the near future — so they decided to make the appointment on the spot.

They went through a special file that they maintain on those who had been interviewed after expressing an interest in serving on a city board. They examined 50 names, covering everyone who had been mentioned for the post. Mayor McCarthy said, before settling on Halverson, he had to obtain the permission of his company before accepting.

Halverson came to Pacifica five years ago from Folsom. He chaired a 701 Study Committee studying a new city master plan and was appointed to the Planning Commission in April of 1969. He has been active in the Pacifica Rotary club.

Skyline Shows Gain In Students

Enrollment of students at Skyline College for the Fall 1972 term again revealed the steady growth of the college. Rex Butler, Associate Dean of Admissions and Records, announced. The latest findings based on a comparison between Fall 1971 to Fall 1972 show that Skyline College's total student enrollment jumped at a 6.4 percent rate of 4740 to 5049 students. The day enrollment went at a 2.4 percent rate from 2437 to 2497 students, while the big jump came in the evening college at a rate of 10.7 percent, 2369 students to 2623.

San Bruno Signal Program

San Bruno Council has approved the hiring of a consultant engineer to help the city follow through on TOPICS funds signalization projects.

No engineer has been named. The projects also remain unspecified, although City Engineer Leo Van Dusen had made a recommendation.

Council postponed accepting Van Dusen's recommendation until after it had heard from the city's traffic commission. A special meeting of the traffic commission must be called prior to these were covered in the Wilsey-Ham study.

Eligible for TOPICS funds, according to the study, are Sneath Lane and El Camino Real; Sneath Lane and Claremont Drive; Skyline Boulevard and San Bruno Avenue; Crestmoor Drive and San Bruno Avenue; El Camino Real and San Bruno Avenue; El Camino Real, San Bruno Avenue and Taylor Avenue; and San Mateo Avenue and San Bruno Avenue.

Of these seven Van Dusen recommended signalization work be performed at Sneath Lane and El Camino Real; Crestmoor Drive and San Bruno Avenue; and Skyline Boulevard and San Bruno Avenue.

Van Dusen said he selected these three intersections for signalization work on the basis that the three projects would take all the $82,000 TOPICS funds.

In an unrelated traffic matter, the council approved the installation of stop signs at the intersection of Crestmoor and Bennington Drives on an automatic three-month trial basis.

Northgate Expands Service in Area

Northgate Transit Lines Daily City has increased its bus service on the Westlake and St. Francis Heights Routes.

Weekday service will be increased to every 20 minutes from 5:50 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on the Westlake route and every 20 minutes from 6 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on the St. Francis Heights route.

Northgate also is increasing service from Mission and Templeton-Top of the Hill (Old Daily City) to Serramonte Shopping Center on weekdays to every 10 min. from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Night and weekend service will remain at its present level.

George Ferris, general manager of Northgate Transit, said service was being improved because of the increased number of passengers since Serramonte Shopping Center opened.

"We are always looking for ways to improve service," Ferris went on to say, "and we are continuing to review all our routes to see where improvements are needed."

Just last month Northgate began half hour service between Westlake and Stonestown Shopping Centers on Sundays.

Great Dickens Christmas Fair Near SF Produce Mart

The Third Annual Great Dickens Christmas Fair and Pickwick Comic Annual opens in San Francisco November 25. In an engaging re-creation of a London street fair and marketplace during the times of Charles Dickens, 1840-1870, the enchanting gaslight entertainments of that era, from the high to the low, can all be discovered under one roof as, perhaps, not seen for nearly 100 years.

A vast storehouse next to the All the Victorian flavor and entertainments are re-created with as much authenticity as is humanly possible, based upon extensive research in England by Ron and Phillis Patterson of Theme Events, Ltd., the same people who present the Annual Renaissance Pleasure Faires.

The Dickens Fair may be reached from the Peninsula by taking the Bayshore Freeway. Exit at the Army Street off-ramp and follow the signs to Fezzig's Warehouse, next to

Guadalupe Grant Will Help Extend Services for Women

A grant of more than $8,000 from the American Cancer Society will allow the Guadalupe Health Center in Daly City to greatly extend its services to women in the North San Mateo County area.

The funding from ACS will be used to hire a community aide who will conduct cancer education programs throughout the North County communities and to provide supplies and laboratory services for approximately 1,000 Pap smears.

As a result of the grant, the Guadalupe Health Center will plan cancer screening clinics throughout the area it serves. Working with sponsoring community organizations, the cancer screening clinics will be held at locations throughout the North County.

Medical services and supplies will be provided by the Health Center. In this way, virtually all of the women in the area who are unable to secure cancer examinations through traditional sources because of cost or the lack of transportation, will be reached through the new health program.

"Moving the cancer clinic into the community will greatly increase the early detection and treatment of the cancers most commonly found in women," states Joseph Armstrong, Executive Director of the San Mateo County Unit of ACS. "The Guadalupe Health Center hopes to reach approximately 700 women through their ACS-funded program in the first year of the project," he continues. The Health Center, which was founded in July, 1971, operates its full-service clinic five nights each week from 7 to 10 p.m.

Most of the 400 patients each month who visit the Center come from communities of Daly City, Colma, Brisbane, Bayshore, South San Francisco, Pacifica and Monterey. The prime thrust of the center is to provide health services to low income families and individuals who cannot afford traditional, private health care.

The demand for the center's services have grown to the point that it will soon move out of its original facility at 6707 Mission St., Daly City, and into the building which was formerly ly the City Hall located at 75 Wellington Ave. in Daly City. For questions about screening, call the Health Center at 755-9616.

Serramonte High-lites

This is the first year of operation for Serramonte High School's Career Center. The center is open daily from 9:30 a.m. until 1:15 p.m. under the guidance of Gerry Maxwell, vocational counselor, and Mrs. Marilyn Bjorn, assistant.

The center is a place where students can find reasons for staying in school, can learn about different occupations, can take a variety of tests, etc. The center is stocked with college catalogs, Occupational Outlook handbooks, career encyclopedia, scholarship information, and visual aids.

Vocational tests are usually given to junior and senior students, but this year a new test called J-B-O is being given to the freshmen students to assist them in setting vocational and educational goals.

In addition to all the activities of the center already mentioned, assistance is given to the students in finding jobs.

of the school, 699 Serramonte Blvd., Daly City.

It will be Jewelry-Bingo night on Tuesday for the members of the Fifty Plus Club of Pacifica, according to Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, president of that busy group of seniors.

Members and guests will meet in the Pacifica library, located on Hilton Lane at Palm, for a night of "fun and games" with the prizes being supplied by the players themselves. Mrs. Calhan explains that everyone will be asked to bring a nice piece of costume jewelry which he/she no longer wears, and contribute it to the fund of prizes. Winners in the bingo games will have a choice of what they like best on the prize table. Plans call for the games to continue until all the prizes have been won.

AT LEAST 300 Christmas gifts for young children is the goal of the members of the Holy Angels Latin Club in Colma, according to Mrs. Nemer J. Gonzalez.

Annually the club hosts underprivileged children from the north Peninsula area at a giant Christmas party, complete with music, food, presents and games but this year a financial crisis is causing talk of the possibility of curtailing the funfest. According to Mrs. Gonzalez the club is appealing to the community for individuals, businesses or clubs to contribute small gifts, costing no more than $1 each, to the party. Gifts should be wrapped and marked as suitable for either a boy or a girl.

Persons wishing to help make this community project a success are asked to call Mrs. Gonzalez, 992-3591 for more information.

THE HOLY ANGELS Women's Guild will sponsor a Day of Reflection on Wednesday, November 29, according to Mrs. John Lagomarsino, publicity chairman for the guild.

The program for the day will begin with Mass at 9 a.m. and will conclude at approximately 2:30 p.m. Moderator for the day will be the Reverend Robert Gavin, spiritual program director from St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park. Father Gavin came to this area from Hawaii, Mrs. Lagomarsino reports.

Those planning to attend, and this event is open to everyone, are asked to bring a bag lunch. Coffee will be served by the guild.

More information is available to anyone calling 755-7443.

TWO NINETEENTH century works for piano and violin which have never before been performed in public will be included in the music program being offered on Thursday, November 30, by members of the Aptos Junior High School orchestra and violinist Joseph Gold and pianist Sieglindie Onderdonk.

Grand Sonata, by Henri Vieuxtemps and Fantasy on the Prayer From Moses by Delphin Alard will be the exciting first performances which have been planned for inclusion in the benefit program, according to Gold who is the orchestra director of Aptos.

Gold, who makes the discovery and collecting of rare and "lost" works an avocation, has discovered the works which he and Mrs. Onderdonk will be performing as well as the relatively unknown works which the student soloists and the orchestra will present. In addition to the Fantasy and Sonata, Gold and Mrs. Onderdonk will do Zigeunerweisen by Sarasate to round out their program of romantic works from the last century.

Robert Rinehart and Seth Taylor, students of Gold, will do Violin Duo Concertini by DeBeriot and the orchestra will play Concerto Grosso by Handel.

Donations of $1 a person will be accepted at the door. Proceeds from the evening will be used to purchase educational materials for the music department at Aptos.

THE CHRISTMAS PARTY being planned by the members of the congregation of St. Andrew's will be open to all members of the community who wish to join with their friends and neighbors for a holiday dinner-dance, according to Mrs. William Holland, the publicity chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Smith are the chairmen of the committee which is arranging the details of the party which will be held in the St. Andrew's Center in St. Francis Heights on December 9. Tickets, costing $5 per person, are being sold by Ben Gershenoff. Proceeds from the sale of tickets will be used to purchase new chairs for the center.

MRS. RICHARD CECCONI and Mrs. Hubert Sandertur, the chairmen of the North Peninsula Circle's October dinner-dance, Autumn Whirl, congratulated their committee members for a "job well done" at a luncheon party this past week.

Mrs. Elise Douat, Mrs. R. L. Ariani, Mrs. Harold Tonini, Mrs. Charles Poggio, Mrs. Murray H. Freedman, Mrs. Frank Greenwood and Mrs. Albert Teglia were the committee members attending.

MR. AND MRS. CARL MULLER of San Diego were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gehrmann of Westlake during the past few days.

TERRY LOWRY, presently the seven-day-a-week weather girl for KRON-TV, Channel 4, at her workshop conference last week for the Daly City Cadette Girl Scouts, emphasized the routine of a daily skin, hair and nails cleansing program.

Showing her teaching background, she conducted the session on a question-and-answer basis with the 12, 13-, and 14-year-old girls, approximately one hundred in number, being most interested in make-up and in her career.

The good grooming session was arranged by Mrs. Lois Manber, Mrs. Nancy Dahlberg, Mrs. Norma Young and Mrs. Roz Morino.

HOLIDAY FOODS from many lands, a color slide program for Scout leaders is available from P G & E by contacting Mrs. Louise Fletcher at 781-4211, Ext. 2664, who handles this project for the San Francisco through Burlingame area.

YWCA Sets Its Holiday Tour Dates

Holiday tours have been scheduled for December 2 to the Marin Festival of Trees, and to Disneyland, Sea World in San Diego, and the Pasadena Rose Parade on December 28 through January 2.

Pickup in castlake and San Bruno. The Marin Festival of Trees is held in the Marin Veterans' Memorial Building and is comprised of the work of more than 14 guilds in Marin and over 200 exhibitors in the Bay Area. There will be decorated trees, Christmas ornaments, handcrafted gifts, office and home decorations, and food and drink for sale. Special events of the day will include Santa Claus, clowns, puppet show, art in action and more.

Although our tour may not include every item, it will include most. In addition to this, the tour will visit a cheese factory and lunch is included. Price of the tours is $10 for members and $12 for non-members. Children are at half price. The tour will leave about 9 a.m. and return about 6 p.m. Then on December 26, a tour has been planned for a full-filled week. There will be reserved grandstand seats at the annual Pasadena Rose Parade, a one-day tour to San Diego and Sea World, all-day drive to Palm Springs and the Indio Date groves. We will go on the fant-sic aerial tramway ride on Mt. San Jacinto. Then a full day and evening at Disneyland. No meals are included except New Year's dinner. This fantastic week costs only $200 twin or $335 for single.

All reservations must be made as far in advance as possible.

A Christmas Boutique Set

Holy Angels Christmas Boutique will be held in the hall December 2-3, beginning after the 3:30 p.m. mass on Saturday and continuing on Sunday after the masses.

Organizers for the event are Mrs. Robert Simon, Mrs. Clark Kerns and Mrs. James Arena. The Holy Angels parish hall is at 107 San Pedro Road, Colma.

H-A Day of Recollection

Holy Angels will have a "Day of Recollection" November 29 at Holy Angels Church, 177 San Pedro Road, Colma. The day will begin at 9 a.m. with mass and conclude at approximately 2:30 p.m. Moderator will be Fr. Robert Gavin, spiritual program director from St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park.

Bruno Jaycee Santa Project

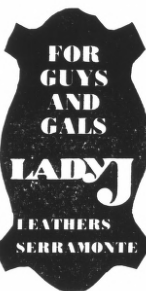

For the two weeks preceding Christmas the San Bruno Jaycees will deliver to local homes one live Santa Claus who will bring each child a gift (supplied by the parents and picked up the previous day by a Jaycee), talk with him, pose with him for pictures and share his delight over the present.

A $5 donation to the Jaycee general fund may be the best investment this holiday, a Jaycee said.

The Jaycees plan on supplying Santa in the San Bruno, Daly City, South San Francisco and Millbrae area.

However, as requests come in from outside areas, they may expand, the spokesman said.

Interested persons may call 355-5759, 355-7877, 355-4638 and ask for Santa's helpers for details and arrangements.

Wedding Bells

Camilleri-Chewning

Virginia is the first address for Louis Chewning and his bride, the former Doreen Camilleri, who honeymooned en route to their new home.

The couple exchanged vows at St. Paul of the Shipwreck Church in San Francisco. A reception followed at the Italian-American Social Club in that city.

The new Mrs. Chewning is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Camilleri of Millbrae. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Chewning of San Francisco.

Doreen asked Leah Smith to be her maid of honor and Mrs. Sam Sacco and Mrs. Robert Lynch, sisters of the bride, shared secondary attendants' duties. Anna Marie Mascuzza served as the flower girl.

Jeff Camilleri stood with his new brother-in-law as best man. Guests were seated by Sam Sacco and Robert Lynch. John Lynch and Steven Sacco were ring bearers for their uncle's wedding.

Mills High School and Woodrow Wilson High School in San Francisco are the respective alma maters of the bride and bridegroom.

Mullady-Gorman

Hayward is the first address for Mr. and Mrs. David Gorman (Debra Mullady) who traveled to Southern California for their honeymoon.

The couple exchanged vows at St. Veronica's Church in South San Francisco. A reception followed at the El Rancho Motel.

Debra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mullady of San Bruno. When she walked to the altar with her father, she was dressed in an ivory floor-length gown with ruffle detailing.

Nancy Goldstein, the matron of honor, set the style of dress for the bridal party in an orange and ivory dress. Secondary attendants were Cheryl Mullady, the bride's sister, and Diane McKelvey, Diane Pfeiffer and Marilyn Gorman, the bridegroom's sister. Flower girl duties were performed by Lana Schriver.

Good morning, good cooks. When The Post arrived today, I'm sure you scanned it quickly for news, information and good buys. In such a day-before-Thanksgiving rush, you don't have time to visit with me. I hope you will put Sugar and Spice aside and read it on Friday, when you are relaxing after the Thanksgiving festivities.

If you are planning on baking a fruit cake, now is the time. Fruit cakes need to mellow and ripen in order to reach their full goodness by Christmas.

Before we start the recipe, we had better talk a bit about the special preparation the pans need. In order to protect the cake during the long baking time, grease the pan then line with greased brown paper, allowing the paper to extend above the top of pan about an inch. This keeps the cake edges from getting too brown and gives you a handy lifter.

WHITE FRUIT CAKE

3 cups blanched almonds
 2 pounds seedless white raisins
 1/2 pound each candied fruits: lemon peel, mixed fruits, orange peel, cherries, citron and pineapple
 In large mixing bowl combine the three cups almonds, two pounds seedless raisins and half pound each, lemon peel, mixed fruits, orange peel, cherries, citron and pineapple.

5 cups flour
 1 tablespoon nutmeg
 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
 Sift together the five cups flour, one tablespoon nutmeg and one teaspoon cream of tartar
 3-fourths cup margarine
 1 pound light brown sugar
 6 eggs, separated
 1/2 cup brown corn syrup
 2-thirds cup whiskey

Cream the three-fourths cup margarine with the one pound brown sugar. Separate the six eggs, add yolks to creamed mixture and mix well. (Beat the six whites to soft peak stage.) Add the half cup brown corn syrup and two-thirds cup whiskey to creamed mixture. Lastly add the beaten egg whites.

1 1/2 cups buttermilk
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 Combine the one and one-half cups buttermilk with the one teaspoon baking soda and add to creamed mixture alternately with the sifted dry ingredients.

Fold in the fruit and nuts.
 Pour into 10-inch tube pan which has been greased and lined with greased brown paper.

Bake in 300-degree oven two and three-fourths to three hours or until toothpick comes out clean and top is firm to touch.

Remove cake from oven and allow to cool on cooling rack for 10 minutes. Then lift cake by baking paper and allow to cool completely on rack. Remove papers and wrap in cheese cloth which has been moistened with whiskey. Wrap in foil and store in cool place.

CORRECTION: Last week's Tomato Aspic calls for three-fourths cup water.
 In the Pumpkin Cake filling, the amount of cinnamon is one teaspoon. In the topping, the amount of white sugar is 1/4 cup. —N.N.

'One of My Favorite Things Is Children ...'

The children ran to get their romper-stompers. It was time to play outdoors. Sharyl Blackney and one of the mothers pulled a portable monkey bar out into the yard. And the 15 little children, aged 2 years, 9 months to five years jumped on their tricycles, waded through the air on their romper-stompers or hung from the portable monkey bar.

This was the San Mateo YWCAS Wicket World Cooperative Nursery, a nursery school which meets five mornings a week. Here parents come along and help the children learn. Sharyl Blackney was supervising the children along with some of the parents who came to help.

The children rode around and around on the circular sidewalk. Sharyl helped a little girl up the portable monkey bar. "That looks very appealing, Pam," she said to another Pam, who had wrapped paper around a popsicle stick.

"One of my favorite things is children," Sharyl said. "Especially children of this age." Highly-qualified for her work in the nursery, Sharyl Blackney studied at the Palmer Child Study Institute in Detroit, and specialized in Child Development at Wayne State University, working two years at a cooperative student nursery and teaching a class at the nursery.

"I envision the nursery as being a place where the children have the freedom to be the people that they are," she said. "Here we help them develop the tools to get along together. For instance, what to do when they get angry. We show them that angry emotions are not wrong. They are learning to communicate with other children," Sharyl said. "And we try to give them a sense of being capable."

A little boy bumped over his tricycle and hurt his head. She stopped to comfort him.

"In a cooperative nursery," she continued, "the children's parents come, too. They love to be involved with the schooling of their children." A cooperative parents' group meets once a month, she added. Thirty-one families are involved, with fifteen children attending each day. "Some parents can't participate, of course. But all different kinds of people are involved," she said. "Some are on welfare."

She stopped to untangle a romper-stomper chord from a tricycle wheel. "This is a really nice facility. A nice size."

A morning at Wicket World is structured so that each child knows what will happen next. The first hour in the morning is free-play, with puzzles and games laid out. Then they have their juice. Then it is time to play outside for a hour. Then it's back inside again for dancing, stories and music. "The schedule is so the children know what to expect. The activity is different every day."

A little boy just crashed into the nearest tricycle. "He likes crashing," said Sharyl.

"Hello," says another little boy to nobody in particular. "My name is Charlie Duocar."

Finally it was time for the youngsters to go back inside. The children knew just what to do. And the tricycles and romper-stompers, and the portable monkey bars came back inside for another day.

Inside the nursery were two big rooms full of child-sized furniture and cribs for the littlest children. A shelf with picture books, games and toys lined the wall.

It was story time. But some of the children played with their mothers at a little child-sized game table. In the other room, children huddled close around Sharyl. She was reading a story about the "Wild Things."

Holidays Mixed Up

THANKSGIVING DAY 1972 — That's today (we're being delivered Thursday). It's easy to get the holidays mixed up nowadays, what with the federal government stepping in and shifting certain ceremonies around to suit its working types. Veterans Day has been changed. Armistice Day is no more. Memorial Day is now a few days this way or that on the calendar. And before you know it July Fourth will be on the tenth. God help us if they start taking a look at Christmas. It's had enough our beloved advertisers already having their wares under the guise of "X-Mas Sales" before Thanksgiving in these modern times.

BUT THANKFULLY Thanksgiving is here — the last Thursday of the month. The time for the Big Bird and all that stuffing. Families get together and mix talk and tonic while the women as yet unliberated ones prepare the meal and what food these morsels be. Some reflect on the things they are thankful for. Actually, this aggravated writer is thankful for lots of things, mostly because we're still around for Thanksgiving.

AND WE ARE thankful for people, the fine folks we've had the pleasure of talking (arguing at times) with over this past 12 months. Each had a story to tell, a point to make. We are truly thankful for nice people like Mrs. Marian Armstrong, whether the Jefferson Elementary School District Powers-that-be are or not. Without folks such as her this would be a dismal society indeed. We include in this group of courageous people young and pretty Charla Garden.

THE MAILS today brought an interesting letter regarding these two people. Here are a couple of excerpts from that letter sent by Mrs. J. H. Kornahrens of Daly City.

"It is property tax time again. This year $265 of our $780 property taxes goes to the Jefferson Elementary School District. . . I for one am glad that maybe a tiny, tiny portion of that money went into two (2) pinches of salt and 20 minutes of cooking time. . . rather than a school board member enjoying a luxurious motel, a personal telephone call or a social drink when away on OFFICIAL school business.

"The employee named in your column has given . . . hours of work several evenings a week plus Saturdays, Sundays and holidays to man a snack bar at a Servicemen's Center on Market Street in San Francisco until it was closed due to lack of funding. She solicited homemade pies, cookies, foodstuffs, candies and volunteers so that any serviceman . . . could come and enjoy and relax when off-duty.

"This same (person) is now working for 'Teen Challenge,' a rehabilitation group for young people who, in turn, are helping to make Christmas more joyful for the residents at Sonoma State Hospital. Now something has backfired. Isn't it always the one helping his fellow man that is the first to get cut down?"

THE PERSON the letter writer was talking about is, of course, Mrs. Armstrong, a veteran of some 19 years in the JESD, who was accused of cooking a couple of turkeys and some cookies and cakes in recent months using the school oven (she brought her own ingredients) for use by P-TA groups, church groups and such. Now her world has fallen in.

Actually, it has been pointed out that the amount of salt used was substantially more than "two pinches." It was, in fact, one-half cup. Does this make it a felony? We can't say, as we have wondered about a lot of things in the Classified Personnel Department of the JESD in the past one year.

THERE IS ANOTHER section of Mrs. Kornahrens' letter equally interesting. It concerns Charla Garden, whom we wrote about in this space last week.

"Perhaps these public-spirited citizens could give a drop of blood in behalf of Charla who has used over 100 pints of blood in several hospital confinements. And Charla is always cheerful and I am sure helping beyond her physical ability."

AND WE ARE THANKFUL for all our other friends who have helped make this column a spotlight used to illuminate what we feel are certain "irregularities" in government and society in general.

DON'T THROW AWAY your identification card for the Westlake and Skyline Plaza supermarkets yet. That rumor we hazarded in this column last week that Alpha Beta Foods would buy the Westlake Food and Skyline Plaza Food centers is about as solid as a wet piece of tissue paper. Vince Nevello, top man at the successful supermarkets, made it abundantly clear no such deal was even in the offing. Had he bothered to check with Nevello in the first place (and second place, too) rather than fall victim to that nasty rumormongrel we wouldn't be begging his forgiveness now.

SICK CALL — Daly City Officer John Van Otten, Kaiser Hospital heart attack. Doing nicely. Broadmore Police Chief Ray Savage, chomping at the bit to get back behind his desk following his heart attack three months ago. And they said he was a cop without a heart. . .

WE WERE WONDERED saddened to hear of the death of George J. Sims, father of D.C. Captain David Sims and Mike Sims, head of the D.C. Maintenance Division.

IT MUST BE difficult to see the daylight from inside a pocket. There are those who would have you believe that Colma Councilman Raymond Ottoni. Sr. had in his possession ALL receipts for certain sewer connections on property he owned. Dear Friend, is it possible that the members and management of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District charged Mr. Ottoni some $1300 for something he already paid for and had receipts to prove such payment? As Perry Como sings, "It's impossible."

We will say, however, that reported allegations connection fees were paid in cash by Mr. Ottoni and pocketed by someone are serious, if true.

DAVE GEHRE, district manager, was contacted by this column and denied both charges — that Mr. Ottoni had all receipts and someone with the district had pocketed the m-o-n-e-y. He assured that if such receipts were available no costs would have been levied.

Textbooks Downgrade Girls

According to a researcher at Stanford University, the horizons of girls six to eight years old already have been narrowed by textbooks.

"There's a conspiracy out there somewhere in the textbook industry," said psychology department research assistant Dr. Carol Jacklin, only half in jest.

Dr. Jacklin, a self-described feminist, recently completed a four-month study on sex bias in kindergarten through third-grade reading books.

"Textbooks could be a source of widening children's horizons, but they are not," she declared. "It is not a matter of getting girls into masculine fields. It is a matter of not limiting their horizons."

The study, funded by the Ford Foundation, focused upon the readers of four major publishers, including the California state-approved series and other texts used extensively across the nation.

Dr. Jacklin said she and two research assistants concluded from analyzing more than 60 stories in each series that the texts downgrade girls and women through stereotyping.

The researchers said they found that adult women always were depicted indoors—usually in the home, sometimes teaching in a classroom or nursing in a hospital. There were no women doctors, bank tellers, aviators or even storekeepers, they added.

The researchers said outside activities were reserved for the men and the stories were devoid of action until the male character entered.

"We are shown adult males outside the home, sometimes doing 'planning things,'" explained Dr. Jacklin, mother of two children. "Women are shown inside the home, never in professions, never solving problems."

To illustrate what she said were effects of sexual stereotypes on youngsters, Dr. Jacklin cited a study finding that, by the age of 6 to 8, 75 per cent of girls will say they want to be teachers or nurses when asked what they want to be when they grow up.

Conversely, boys asked that question will give two occupations more than 10 per cent of their choices, she said.

Dr. Jacklin said the texts studied by her group showed 33 men and seven women; 110 boys and 61 girls.

The researcher said the textbook writers—most of whom were women—did not intend to "be nasty" or to hurt other females.

"They have no commitment to consider the problems of sex-role stereotypes," she explained. "They write about the world, and maybe it is a sex-role-stereotyped place."

"What we're hoping to see is wider horizons for girls—girls that show that girls as well as boys should have a try at doing whatever they want," said Dr. Jacklin, who has a doctorate in child psychology from Brown University.

The Games We Play

"Games awaken the eagerness to learn, to think, to imagine, to listen, to create and to express ideas. . . We Americans are basically unoriented. We like games." —Hurwitz and Goddard MONOPOLY is 39 years old. Through depressions and wars capitalism has ruled the game board as players have bargained for pieces of Atlantic City or lost their stacks of paper money on unwise investments.

This year the makers of games expect to capture a larger share of the Christmas trade than ever before. To this end they offer an interesting assortment for fun and mental exercise.

There is "Scrambled Egg," a finger-kickin' chicken game requiring the winner to boot his eggs with his finger, over the fowl line before his opponents. Then there is "Funny Face" for the clowns in your family. The object is to fit parts of the human anatomy into a clown's face before a rival player can build his own funny man.

FOR THE FOUR to eight year olds there is "Hi Ho Cherry," a game that turns fruit picking into an exercise of chance.

"Smog" is Parker Brothers game for people who find chess hard to learn. Instead of kings and knights and pawns, the players use ninnies, numbskulls and brains. The object of the game is to protect your brain when it is attacked by a numbskull. (As Huxley observed, the rules of games come from the laws of life.)

"Toss Across" jazzes up "Tic Tac Toe," by adding bean bags to make a game of skill. "Skittle Pool" and "Skittle Horseshoes" bring two old favorites to the table top. Orion is a whole family of games that allows the players to form galaxies and to fish in the heavens. But let the players beware, for science fiction games require skill and concentration.

"TENSION" is a game that requires the winner to act with quicker reflexes than his opponents, while "Headache" is a game that allows the players to use dice and three dimension holes to send each other to the aspirin bottle. If that's not enough "Super Spy" features hidden alarms that shatter the nerves of the unskillful player who trips them.

With electricity and computer-like devices, football, hockey, baseball and basketball have become parlor games, with lights and whistles and moving figures. "Talking Football" has got to be the most unique game of this type. Each player is furnished with phonograph records to help him call the plays that will send his opponent to the showers.

The makers of "Mind Maze" boast that their game brings to the players the memory of a computer, the delicate touch of a surgeon, the concentration of a chess player and the defensive genius of a general.

FOR THE 1972 season playing cards have been made more attractive, so have chess men and checkers and all the components of most of the old favorites.

So for 1972, "Play up! Play up! And Play the game," as Henry Newbolt wrote long ago. If you need any help, turn to an edition of Hoyte. May I suggest Hoyte's Rules of Games with Albert H. Morehead and Geoffrey Mott-Smith as editors.

The Public Voice

Editor, The Post:

Taxes, taxes, taxes.

Talking to several senior citizens election, when that ugly word taxes was mentioned, it was like waving a red flag at a bull. Further questioning brought out that all of them had voted "Yes" on the first 54 propositions at the last election requesting hundreds of millions of dollars for a total of almost 1 billion dollars. That they had voted in favor of Amendment "A" to purchase open space in San Mateo County for $40,000,000 and had voted to purchase land here in Millbrae for another $1,400,000.

I have attended many tax protest meetings in San Mateo County, all the way from San Bruno to San Carlos over the past several years, but I have never observed any of these senior citizens present to present their views. Neither have I ever observed them at the Board of Supervisors' meetings in Redwood City. But how can they when they get their tax bill every year and there is the usual increase of $100 or so over the previous year.

Recently I was told that there are over $6,000 senior citizens in San Mateo County. If just one out of every five would just show up at these tax protest meetings, it would be a representative force of 10,000.

Certain factions along with their attorneys are at almost every meeting of the Board of Supervisors demanding more and more money all the time for various projects. Some of these demands border on the ridiculous, but when the supervisors never hear any objection from uninterested taxpayers they must eventually grant these requests.

In conclusion Mr. John Doe, average citizen and taxpayer, cannot complain then when he receives an added $100 or more each year on his tax bill.

GEORGE R. STANTON, Millbrae.

Holly Tours A Newspaper

Holly Ermann, the 17-year-old Crestmoor High School senior who edits the school newspaper, "The Crest," got a look at the daily newspaper world this week.

Holly, whose news story on Damien House won her first place in the United Bay Area Crusade's Eighth Annual Editors' Day contest recently, got a day with a major newspaper as her prize. She chose The Times.

Her day started with a trip with a Times photographer on a rush morning assignment.

Then Holly toured The Times plant, examining such things as the new photo-typesetting equipment, computer setting and record keeping, and various automated engraving and photographic procedures.

After lunch, Holly got a look at a typical beat. She traveled to San Mateo's Central District Municipal Court and sat in the courtroom while a traffic case was argued before Judge William Lanam.

A young man who had elected to argue his own case at trial lost and was sentenced.

Then Holly visited the Foster City Police Department. Here, the police showed her the holding room (Holly quickly exited before anyone could close the door on the bare-walled cell, and such inner sanctum equipment as one-way glass, and a statewide computer setup that widely back all the information on her family car in minutes, just from the license number.

"It can show any outstanding

warrants too," she was told.

Then the fire department showed her the special equipment they use for rescue work and explained their role in detail.

Back at the paper, Holly sat down with General Manager Harold Schlottbauer, who told her of the new innovations in newspaper production that were around the corner, and some of the history of Times printing. Finally, she got to meet J. Hart Clinton, the publisher, for a short chat.

Today, she admits, she is debating whether to enter the field, now that she knows that in today's journalism there is an expanding role for women that did not previously exist.

What's Ahead For Ted?

was little about McGovern to attract top professionals. But Kennedy loyalists appeared in large numbers. Mankiewicz and Salinger were, of course, the best known. But Adam Walinsky, Richard Goodwin, David Hackett and even Gary Hart, who had been a western regional coordinator for the Robert Kennedy presidential campaign, also appeared early.

Why all of this for the Senator from South Dakota? From the perspective of the spring 1971, Hubert Humphrey might have won the presidency. Edmund Muskie might have been a winner. As seen then, Ted Kennedy himself might have won but he had a surer thing waiting.

Kennedy knew the election would not be held until November of 1972. With a sense of the sweep and mobility of politics he saw the position of Richard Nixon at that time as one of nascent strength, not weakness as was surmised in some circles.

Ted Kennedy, in fact, knows a real loser when he sees one. Assuming he wanted the presidency, the only way to keep it safely shielded until 1976 was to be certain that the offered candidate was weak enough that a Nixon victory was assured. Then in the Fall election campaign, Kennedy could star in speeches in favor of the selected loser, in fund raising activities in support of the selected loser and even, if possible, carrying Massachusetts for the selected loser.

Ted Kennedy managed to do all these things plus upstage Senator McGovern as an attractive public figure. Post convention, the big McGovern crowds were Kennedy crowds. The big cheers at the Democratic convention were for Ted Kennedy.

Little wonder that Senator Hubert Humphrey, whose last hurrah occurred in California in June now seeks a new voice such as that of Senator Mondale as the new hope of the Democratic party.

Little wonder that nothing has been heard from Edmund Muskie in support of Senator Edward Kennedy for President in 1976.

Finally, there is the problem of staff work in the general election. The McGovern staff did a great job up to the night of the convention. Then, serious blunders began to appear.

—The failure to have an acceptance speech on prime or even reasonable television time.

—The inadequate staffing out of Senator Eagleton as a vice president nominee.

—Television and radio buys that were misplaced in time or format and seemed to be canceled altogether.

—Failure of campaign thrust on issues.

—The performance of Pierre Salinger in Paris when McGovern indicated he had not sent Salinger and Salinger hurriedly admitted he had been in Paris at the request of McGovern.

So the strange race for President that begins exactly four years before the opening of polls for the next election, has already started with the rising star of Edward Kennedy as a potential presidential nominee.

But the 1972 campaign leaves a trail of doubts and questions. Should a presidential nomination be the prize for the individual most responsible for McGovern the loser?

A Big Win for Rams

By JERRY LITTELL
Post Correspondent

Westmont High School has rewritten that old saying that states "the best defense is a good offense." In fact the Rams have reversed it around 180 degrees and with that bit of legerdemain has nipped itself a share of the 1972 North Peninsula League football championship.

Half Moon Bay and Westmont have tied for the conference championship with 6-1 records after two completely different victories in Friday's final day of action. The Cougars lambasted Serramonte, 34-8, while Westmont pulled out a heart-stopping 24-20 victory over Terra Nova, a team that also could have had a share of the title.

In other conference action, South San Francisco blanketed the Cougars, 40-0, and El Cerrito got by Johnson, 34-12.

The best offense all season for Westmont has been its defense and it was at its finest in the second half of Friday's thriller.

Terra Nova had jumped out quickly to a 23-6 lead before halftime and the Rams appeared fading in the Daly City twilight. But a couple of second-half touchdowns and a couple of interceptions ignited a second half rally for Westmont that meant a HMB rematch, at an undisciplined time or place, next week for the right to to enter the Central Coast Section playoffs on December 1.

Everything went wrong for Westmont and right for TV in the opening half. Two reverses by Bill Bender, an enigma, easily easy 30-yard pass from John Salomon to Rich Bjorkel and even a bad punt snap that led to a safety gave the Tigers a quick and morbid-looking lead.

Enter sophomore Bob Baptista and Harold Day and senior Ken Dempsey and Mark Sangunetti. With the Tigers driving, for still another score after intermission, Salomon's pass was intercepted by Baptista on the 23 and returned 77 yards for a touchdown and the initial spark.

With only 4:38 left in the game and the Westmont defense, the Tigers to punt from their own 43. The Rams rushed all 11 and it resulted in a block by Sangunetti and a pickup and touchdown run of 33 yards by Dempsey.

Again the defense rose to the occasion. Five plays later a 14-yard Tiger fumble on the 34. By the time Dempsey recovered the ball it was back on the 25.

On the very next play Baptista, forced into action when starting halfback Kick LeBlanc sustained a foot injury, before half-time, came out of the backfield of fullback Chris Wade who field, crossed through the Tiger's secondary and took an over-the-head pass from Day for the winning touchdown with 1:57 remaining.

Beulman was hardly the word for what ensued.

Salomon's first pass was intercepted by Gary Lofton and Westmont ran off seven plays until being forced to relinquish the ball with 0:13 left. Again Lofton picked off another Salomon aerial. In fact the Westmont defense intercepted the last four straight passes Salomon threw in the game.

To the defense went the spoils of this campaign.

HMB 34, SERRAMONTE 8

Bob Hurt was himself and the Half Moon Bay Cougars were back on the victory and championship trail yesterday in gaining half of first place in the NPL.

All Hurt did was run the first play 77 yards for a touchdown on his way to a 138-yard output including two touchdowns. The Cougars, who seem to have a slight edge over Westmont having dominated the Rams in regular season play, 7-2, were up 34-0 before Serramonte could score.

The Cougar play was bolstered by a foot injury before the return to full-time ran in one score and threw to Wade for the other remaining HMB touchdown as the Cougars prep for the CCS playoffs.

Quarterback Pete Peterson

SO. S.F. 40, OCEANA 8

Junior halfback John McKeon scored four touchdowns and ran for 134 yards in just nine carries as South City ended up tied for second with a 2-2 record. The one-sided affair produced nothing on the positive side for the Sharks who ended up with a minus 37 yards offense.

Senior quarterback Rhod Wallace was forced to sit out his first game with a tender leg but junior Mario Limas guided the Warrior offense easily enough in his place.

JOHN McKEON breaks away from an Oceana defender on his way to a 48-yard TD dash. McKeon scored four touchdowns against the Sharks, and rolled up 134 yards on just nine carries.

Le Pacini
Localite Who Makes Good

Another local boy has made good — or at least an adopted local boy. If you read the sports section in all you know that Johnny Swanson, late of San Francisco's Mission District (where he had settled because of the temperate climate, sweet weather and easy access to the J Car Line), and more recently of Daly City (Swanson's Westlake Box), has been inducted into the athletic Hall of Fame.

Swanson deserves it. Not only was he a great athlete for the times, but he also made the Jesuits $50 a day through a concessions stand he ran there during the height of the depression, a figure which was arrived at by dividing $100 by two, the balance going to Swanson.

But don't jump to the wrong conclusions. He was in legitimate partnership with the Jesuits, who knew of his cut, and in fact, insisted on it, since it was part of a scholarship handed Johnny when he entered USF fresh out of Mission High, where he had been an All City halfback and lettered in every sport offered at the school, a feat which he was to repeat at USF.

When a broken leg in his senior year caused a Philadelphia Eagle contract offer to be withdrawn, Swanson began concentrating on other business enterprises and never looked back, although sports has always been a very large part of his leisure hours.

WHILE SWANSON admits that his proudest moment in sports occurred on a night in 1934 when he was assigned to guard the Stanford's Hank Laise and held the legendary shomaker to the lowest single game mark of his collegiate career (Four points), he had some of his greatest fun trading wisecracks and strokes on the links with Bing Crosby and Jack Nicklaus, and never tires of telling the story of the time he hustled rookie pro Nicklaus at the Olympic Club. "He thought he'd clean up on the chubby, bald-headed old guy," chuckles Johnny, and played him to a draw, which Nicklaus achieved only by way of an eagle three on the 17th in the face of a Swanson birdie on the same hole.

Swanson is also holder of a political historical footnote. He was playing a round of golf with then-Gov. Pat Brown on the day Brown lost his governorship to The Gipper, Ronnie Reagan.

Johnny is also, he claims, the man who got Gene McAteer, the late State Senator, in politics. Swanson nominated McAteer for eighth grade president at Everett Junior High School and student body president at Mission, "and he won both of those races," reminds Swanson.

The nicest thing about Johnny Swanson is that he never forgets that he was once a kid without too much money, and he has for years personally supported athletic and other endeavors of teen-agers, projects for which he not only elicits no publicity, but becomes upset if he is given publicity on them.

Actually, it's only incidental that Swanson has made the USF athletic Hall of Fame. If the University had only a Hall of Fame for Nice Guys, Swanson would have made that one, anyway.

AND A NEW REGULAR feature (until it bores us) for you nostalgia nuts. For want of a better name, we'll call it Say When, and maybe you can win a few bar bets with it. Can you recall what was happening in sports during the week of November 20, 19 years ago, 20 years ago...? Here it is, the week in sports of November 20, 1952.

Hank Sauer, playing with the fifth place Cubs, is named the National League's Most Valuable Player amidst a storm of controversy. Sauer, no gazelle in the outfield or on the bases, hits 270, leads the NL in homers (57) and RBIs (121).

1967
The Dodgers may have lost the pennant to the Giants, who grabbed their first flag for San Francisco, but Don Drysdale nonetheless garners the Sporting News Major League Pitcher of the Year Award with a record of 25-9, a 2.83 ERA, and he hit five homers for good measure.

1971
Green Bay sets a National Football League record by scoring 35 points in the first quarter to draw and quarter Cleveland, 55-7. Rookie Travis Williams, who is to go on to establish two other all-time kickoff return records, takes two back all the way for 87 and 85 yards, a record-setting play.

1971
Dartmouth halves streaking Cornell, until then apparently on the way to its first crown since formalization of the Ivy League, 24-14, despite a rather heroic effort by Cornell's future All-American, Ed Manion, who gains 177 yards on 44 carries and scores two touchdowns.

WE HOPE that the addition of Rick Barry and the growing exclusion of Fritz Williams has really helped the Warriors as much as it appeared to help and that the improvement can be carried to its logical conclusion at season's end — a shot at the championship of the NBA.

And if they can't do it this year, then we hope they can manage it next year, or the season after that, at worst. Because if they don't, they may be dead for a, at least five years after that.

We allude, of course, to the generally poor drafting the Warriors have done since they grabbed Barry as their first choice. What they have come up with since has been accomplished through trades and a few unexpected mid-come-throughs by low picks.

Falcons Top Tangs

By DAN BERTELOTTI
Post Correspondent

The Crestmoor Falcons may have only won one game in 1972, but that win gave them the mythical title as "Champion of San Bruno."

The Falcons manhandled rival Capuchino Friday at Burlingame, 21-12. They outgained the Mustangs in every category, rushing 150-43, passing 71-65 and total offense 221-108.

Falcon coach Johnny Brown probably made the offensive change that was the difference. He inserted a reserve senior quarterback, Dennis Lufrano, into the lineup, and Crestmoor responded with an inspired performance.

Egged on by an enthusiastic crowd, the underdogs rallied for 14 points in the last stanza to win.

Lufrano played a major role in the last two scores. With 5:44 left in the contest, he climaxed a 12-play 72-yard drive, diving over from the one. Ronnie Badal's PAT kick gave the Falcons their first lead at 14-12.

They then proceeded to stop Cap with minus one yard on their next series, forcing them to punt. Crestmoor took over on their own 47 and marched in 10 score again. This time it was a 10-play drive.

Lufrano hit Andy Gellis on a roll out pass from 24 yards. That was a fourth down pass with 34 seconds left which wrapped up the game.

Capuchino was thwarted all night by a rugged Crestmoor defense headed by Stu Bringham, Dave Richter and Dave Nelson. They sacked Cap quarterback Ralph Costanzo for 32 yards in losses. When they weren't sacking him, they were giving him a consistent hard rush.

As a result of that, he completed only five of 12 and had two intercepted. His favorite receiver, Mike Slotnick was out for the second week in a row with an ankle injury, seeing his only action on one punt. Costanzo did manage to pass to one T1 to replacement wide receiver Bob Campbell and Dave Coduto swept left end from four yards for their other score.

BEARCAT EXPRESS "DERAILED"

Mills' Mark Shea puts the stop on San Mateo's Larry Croon. Croon got "only" 72 yards Friday as the Vikings pulled out a 28-12 win, but Croon remains the leading rusher in the MPL.

Vikings Roll, Eliminate SM

Mills High picked up five San Mateo fumbles at just the right times on Friday and after they did rolled up 276 yards on the ground in an easy win over the Bearcats, 28-12. The loss eliminated San Mateo from the MPL title picture.

The Capuchino field, where the game was played, looked like the Foster City slough. These conditions seemed to affect the speed backs from San Mateo but it didn't slow power backs running out of the Mills Wishbone a bit.

The Vikings' fumble recoveries almost all came at opportunistic moments. They either stopped a Cat drive deep in Mills territory, or it gave the Vikings the ball deep in San Mateo's end.

Mills broke the game open midway through the third period after a scoreless first half. The Vikings put 16 points on the board in a span of 36 seconds. After holding San Mateo on a fourth and eight play on the Vike 23, Skip Strathorn, on the second play, went 74 yards straight up the middle on a quick opener for the score.

Following the ensuing kickoff San Mateo quarterback Mike Cookson lost control of the ball and Ken Place fell on it for Mills. The very next play, Mills' quarterback Eric Nielson found Bill Givara slanting over the middle and connected on a 47-yard TD toss.

San Mateo was unable to score during the first three quarters and just couldn't come up with the big play. The Cats closed to 16-4 on a pass from Cookson to Tom Cassidy of 17 yards, but Mills answered with Nielson, after a super fake, hooking up with seldom-used Pete Edwards for another TD pass.

LOOK OUT RALPH! Here they come again! Capuchino quarterback Ralph Costanzo scrambles to avoid the hot pursuit of Crestmoor's Dave Nelson, in the backfield. The Falcon defense kept the pressure on the Cap signal caller all night, sacking him for a total of 52 yards.

Le Pacini

Localite Who

So they had been playing again while it's still in reach, because their next chance may then be years away.

SPEAKING OF football this drives the guys in the back shop crazy. Now they'll be looking on the floor for lead saying something about football, what ever happened to the drop kick?

Oh, we know that when it was in style footballs were shaped more like soccer balls and therefore took a truer bounce off the turf, but with the kicking techniques and fine kickers floating around the game today, it seems feasible enough to develop some drop kickers.

It would add an exciting extra dimension to the game, and in some ways makes more sense than the conventional place kick, because with the drop-kick you remove the middle man — the holder of the ball. The conventional way of place kicking requires an almost perfect pass from center and a nearly perfect placement by the holder before the kicker even gets his chance at the ball.

The drop kick, as we said, eliminates the holder, requires only a reasonably good pass from center, and also allows the kicker more mobility, thus more options. Because he is receiving the ball directly from center, he has a better chance to react to a poor center pass and perhaps run or pass it.

And wouldn't it be a thrill to see a runner or a quarterback trapped behind the line of scrimmage on what started out to be a running or passing play, and suddenly stopping short and drop-kicking a field goal?

Enjoy Thanksgiving And Give Sincere Thanks

Thanksgiving 1972 should have a special meaning for all Americans. Our country, as great as it may be, has been going through a difficult period for the past few years. Yet in this time of many uncertainties, our America is still a land of freedom and opportunities.

Thanksgiving is a time when we should forget about our problems, both personal and as a society. Instead, we should count our many blessings and give sincere thanks for the countless advantages we do enjoy. Most of all, be grateful for the fine friendships that bring so much happiness to our lives. And instead of bitter memories of the past, consider what can be accomplished in the future.

To each and all a Joyous Holiday!

Lloyd Johnson and Staff

RENOWNED RESTAURATEUR — George Mardikian, the world-famous author, chef and believer in mankind, will be on hand to host diners Thanksgiving Day at the Omar Khayyam's restaurant in San Francisco. Besides the regular menu of Shish Kebab, Broiled Steaks, Chops and many other delectable items, a special turkey dinner (with all the trimmings) will be featured. As for giving thanks, the remarkable George Mardikian is a living example of the type citizenship we all should strive for.

Cappuccino Machine At Shirt Tail

On these cool winter evenings, have dinner and a hot drink at the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto. Their magnificent Cappuccino machine, imported from Europe creates delightful frothy drinks like Cappuccino D'Amour (smooth but powerful) or your favorite specialty Continental coffees. . . . A traditional holiday feast at moderate prices is what you can expect to find in the Encore Room at the Rodevay Inn, Thanksgiving Day. A complete turkey or ham dinner will include all the trimmings, with service from 12 noon. . . . Frank and Fannie Torres, who own and operate Torres Beach Restaurant, invite one and all to drop into their coastside restaurant, located just south of Devil's Slide on Highway One and try one of their South American specialties. These delicious dishes, prepared under the careful supervision of the indefatigable Frank and Fannie, have been known to attract people from all over the state of California. . . . Some genius Woody Allen graciously signed autographs for fans between bites of Beef Wellington in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco.

"Post Time" 10 A.M. At Nick's Acres

It will be a lively time at Nick's Restaurant and Lounge all through Thanksgiving Day, with the dining activities beginning at 10 a.m. A menu of festive dishes is on the Holiday agenda at this Rockaway Beach, Pacific, restaurant, which is host-owned by popular Nick Gust. Dancing to the Sieve Romano Combo is an added feature in the cocktail lounge. . . . Across the street is Nick's Moonraker restaurant, with a decor that is authentically nautical. A more romantic atmosphere you couldn't ask for. Illuminated oceanside dining on Thanksgiving will be quite an experience. Service from 3 p.m. Organ music provided by Don Kelly. The Papagayo Room, located on the level below and also overlooking the Pacific Ocean, will not be open Wednesday, November 22, or Thanksgiving Day. Service will be resumed the following Friday. Authentic Mexican food is the boast here, and countless Bay Area visitors to Pacific have been introduced to the menu of spicy favorites by clipping the "2 for the price of 1" coupon appearing in their advertisement.

Judy Canova, one of the "No. No. Nanette" stars, was recently in Finocchio's audience, with a group of friends and cast members, and brought her own drink in a thermos bottle: apple juice. THANKSGIVING-1972

It was about 10:30 p.m. when I became aware of the first of the many "Thanksgiving" dinners in San Francisco. I was sitting in the lobby of the Fairmont Hotel, waiting for a taxi to take me to the airport. I was looking at the clock and wondering how much time I had left before the plane would take off. I was looking at the clock and wondering how much time I had left before the plane would take off.

For the first time in my life, I was sitting in a restaurant on Thanksgiving. I was sitting in the lobby of the Fairmont Hotel, waiting for a taxi to take me to the airport. Coast Drama Inner Tube, Copter Save 2 From Sea

A San Jose man and woman plucked from the ocean by a Coast Guard helicopter after spending more than 2½ hours in the frigid waters off Ano Nuevo Island near the San Mateo-Santa Cruz County line this week, owe their lives to a little black inner tube and a big orange and white helicopter, Sheriff's Deputy Richard Trammell said.

George A. Von Gunden, 42, and Marcia Lynne Bock, 24, were lifted into the helicopter at 7:40 p.m. after the aircraft's spotlight picked them out clinging to an inner tube 1½ miles from the island reef where they had gone into the water.

The drama began shortly after 5 p.m. when Donald J. Maggard, 40, of Santa Clara, who had been alone diving with Von Gunden and Miss Bock, reported to the sheriff's office that his friends had been caught by the undertow and swept out to sea.

Von Gunden said later that Miss Bock had slipped from a reef in knee-deep water and started drifting away from the island. He threw her the inner tube, then jumped in after her. Von Gunden related.

The Coast Guard helicopter, piloted by Lt. Cmdr. Frank Carman, arrived from the San Francisco Airport Coast Guard base about 6:30 p.m. and was joined 45 minutes later by an Army helicopter dispatched from Fort Ord.

The aircraft, their spotlights trained on the water, crossed the area until Commander Carman reported he had spotted the two "both alive and kicking." The helicopter airlifted Von Gunden and Miss Bock to the beach where Trammell was waiting.

Big Loot in Brazen Theft In Woodside

Two burglars probably using two cars entered the Woodside home of a Redwood City painting contractor while he slept over the weekend and hauled away a quantity of furnishings, paintings, TV sets, business machines, liquor and an aquarium containing seahorses.

Clarence P. Ward 44 reported to Deputy Sheriff Harvey Rutenberg that when he awakened shortly before 8 a.m. he went to the office in his Summer Hill Lane home and found $817 worth of loot had been taken while he had been asleep. He said he had gone to bed at midnight.

Rutenberg described the burglars as "extremely messy" and said they left muddy shoe prints as they traipsed back and forth between the house and their cars. He said numerous trips were made back and forth.

The burglars, Rutenberg reported, even managed to calm and quiet Ward's boxer watchdog.

Among the things stolen were a clock whose hands ran backward and $75 worth of food from a freezer.

Girl, 14, Dies In Car Crash

A 14-year-old Redwood City girl was killed late Saturday night when the car in which she was riding went out of control and struck a parked vehicle.

Pronounced dead at Sequia hospital was a Debra McPartridge, 14, of 1508 Woodside Road No. 306.

CONGRATULATING Mary Angela Sylvestri, traffic patrol member at Our Lady of Angels school, who took down the license number of a suspected kidnaper, are Insurance Association leader Art Samuels, Police Captain Gerry Nordstrom, and Burlingame Lions Club President Daryl Jasperston.

Lions Club Honors Burlingame Girl

Mary Angela Sylvestri sat quietly through the Burlingame Lions Club meeting last week, even after she received four commendations for possibly saving another girl's life.

Mary Angela is the 11-year-old traffic guard who last month took down the license number of a man who tried to kidnap a schoolmate.

Because she wrote down the license number, the man was quickly caught. Police say he admitted that he intended to kidnap the other little girl, and said he would have harmed her.

No until store owner Clarence Rusch announced an extra award, a full box of bubble gum, did Mary Angela smile.

Then it was a quick flash of a grin, a sideways look at her mother, sitting to her left and her father, sitting to her right at the Lions Club luncheon head table.

Members of the Lions Club applauded Mary Angela several times as Police Traffic Sgt. Robert Quinn introduced the little girl and gave her a commendation from the city: as Lion Club President Daryl Jasperston awarded her a plaque from the club; as Police Captain Gerry Nordstrom gave her an award from the police department; and as Lion Art Samuels gave her a savings bond award from the Independent Insurance Agents Association, which helps sponsor the traffic patrol.

Sergeant Quinn said later that he was very proud to see a Junior Traffic Patrol girl win such a commendation on this fifteenth anniversary of the traffic patrol in America.

He commented that in 25 years of traffic safety patrols by Burlingame school children, not one traffic injury had ever been reported on an intersection so guarded.

Mary Angela's mother listened to the speeches smilingly, as she had sat through the Lions' usual meeting and their badgering of each other and various auctions to raise money for youth groups such as the traffic patrol.

Her father sat, mostly smiling, looking at his daughter, Mary Angela, with pride.

After the luncheon he commented that she was "rather shy" and that she had been getting some ribbing from her schoolmates.

"Good, naturally, I hope," he said. "No," said Mary Angela, shaking her head.

Man, Woman Rob Druggist In Belmont

A man and a woman robbed the Belmont Prescription Shop, 1088 Alameda de las Pulgas, of $150 cash and an undetermined amount of drugs this week, police report.

They also took $75 from the purse of a woman customer who walked into the store in the middle of the robbery, police learned.

The pair, a man about 29 years old and a woman in her 30's, entered and the man simulated a gun in his pocket, police learned. He told the store owner and pharmacist, Hanford Quock, to point out the narcotics and then on the back room floor.

They took the drugs and the cash, the latter from the register, and the woman tied Quock, police said. The woman customer then walked in, was robbed and she too, was ordered into the back room, officers were told.

The two suspects fled on foot in an unknown direction, the victims said.

Burglars Hit S.M. Churches

Thieves have been active in three San Mateo churches or affiliate structures, San Mateo police report.

For the second time in a month, burglars entered the Holy Lutheran Church at 600 Forty-second Avenue, San Mateo.

Missing was a small amount of money and tape and cassette recorders valued at a total of more than $500.

St. Bartholomew's Church at 414 Seville Way, San Mateo, was broken into and Boy Scout tents taken, it was reported.

The Episcopal Church Thrift Shop at Balboa and El Camino Real, San Mateo, was the scene of the lifting of a wallet from a purse Friday morning, police report. Loss totaled $150 and credit cards. The victim was Evelyn Moschetti, 509 block of West Hillsdale Boulevard, police said.

No Names Move Ahead In DC Loop

The No Names moved one-half a game ahead of the San Bruno Cavaliers by defeating the Leapin' Lizards 41-27 in Daily City's Three-Man Hunch League.

In other action the Buzzards picked up their first win by downing the San Bruno Marines, 41-30, and the Odd Squad moved into title contention by upending the Grass Hoppers, 41-31.

The No Names used the 20 point scoring of Larry Norton to shoot down the Lizards. Art White also had the hot hand for the No Names as he pumped in 10 points. Also Castano once again led the Lizards in scoring with 18 points.

The Buzzards picked up their first win of the year as the brother act of Manny and Bobby Garcia both pumped in double digits. Bobby pumped in 13 points while Manny dropped in 10 points. Bob Whitehead backed up the Garcia Brothers fine play by pouring in 11 points. J. Eggs and K. Baldwin led the San Bruno Marines in scoring by each scoring 13 points.

The Odd Squad used balanced scoring out of five men as they shot themselves into the title combined for 22 points, while

Rejected Property Millbrae Puzzler

What to do about 22 acres of sloping hillside property in the center of Millbrae, now that only 59 per cent of the people have voted to buy it, was the question plaguing Millbrae city councilmen last week.

Admitting they did not know what to do, but bringing up a few ideas, the council set a "town meeting" or public hearing to reach a decision in January.

"The president wins by a landslide," yet we get the same ratio of votes and cannot even buy a piece of property," commented Councilman Art Lepore.

Dan Caferrata added 11 to lead the Squad to victory. "Leapin'" Dennis Flannery and "Bouncing" Mike Ciardella played outstanding floor games for the Odd Squad. Gary Thompson and Paul Yenger led the Grass Hoppers in scoring with 11 and 10 points respectively.

The Adult Softball League has completed three weeks of action with the Nestle Team holding on to a one game edge over the Mayor Bernard Esser scheduled the hearing for Thursday, January 11. It will be held at the City Recreation Center, which the council found a way to build after successive bond issues had failed, if that room is big enough.

City Attorney Frank Gillio said the city's option on the 22 acres of property owned by the Archdiocese of San Francisco expires in mid-1973.

A city moratorium on development of the property would also expire at about the same time unless extended.

Councilman Harold Purpus suggested the council consider

Master Batters by virtue of their 8 to 7 come from behind victory.

In this week's action the Nestle team downed a tough Master Batters squad 8 to 7 after trailing 7-0 in the fourth inning. A two-out single by left fielder Gary Andreni scored Bob Eustes with the winning run in the last inning to decide this exciting contest. Melody Toyota rolled over the Old Timers, 23 to 16 with Hector Gonzalez leading the attack. Both teams hit and played very well in this slug fest.

selling as many as 20 lots from the "Millbrae Spur" property to raise money to purchase the Archdiocese land.

Councilman William Glang said: "Harold's idea could be explored, but what we are hoping for is for the people to tell us what to do."

Esser directed Gillio to draw up restrictions which would prevent destruction of trees on the land by a developer, and which would forbid "scraping it to the ground."

Esser asked that Gillio and City Administrator Richard Watson investigate the provisions of a state law which allows a city to demand open space land from the developer of any large subdivision.

The mayor said he knows there will be pressure on Millbrae, almost immediately, to approve plans for developing the 22 acres as homesites.

At least one prospective developer has said that he could build single-family homes, for which the area is zoned, without bulldozing the area into flat building sites and cutting down the groves of eucalyptus trees.

Esser said, "We must be ready to prevent that."

He also urged that work be continued on a city master plan for the area to guide its development.

Minutes earlier, councilmen had agreed with Gillio and Watson from attempting to set "environmental impact report" standards.

2 Gillio said the council should hold off, because the state legislature "will let us know in a couple of weeks whether they are going to set the standards."

Reluctantly, they said, councilmen voted to direct city staff members to issue a building permit to the Hertz Corporation for a new rent-a-car headquarters on Millbrae Avenue at Rollins Road. Councilmen had refused to allow such a permit before, because the auto leasing company does not pay direct sales tax on cars it sells.

Last night's "reluctant" approval resulted from a court action which said the city had no basis for refusing the permit.

Council members agreed to work with Chamber of Commerce leaders in a "re-evaluation" of the chamber's role in the community.

"If we can't justify our existence," said a chamber spokesman, "then we should disband."

They approved spending up to $15,000 for engineering to extend Rollins Road one block north of Millbrae Avenue, and to shut off the Aviator Avenue entrance onto Millbrae Avenue just west of Bayshore Freeway.

The Rollins extension would connect with Aviator, via Garden Lane.

Mayor Esser reported he had been meeting with new owners of the local cable television company, and that "we are in a period of disagreement." Council opinion favored enactment of the $200 a day penalty clause in the cable TV contract, which requires that the system be operable this past October if no settlement is reached.

County To Take Over Housing Authority? DEATHS

County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald says the county should look into the possibility of reorganization to combine the functions of the County Housing Authority and the County Redevelopment Agency into a single county agency. Fitzgerald said Friday that there have been many complaints that the Housing Authority is not doing the job and, furthermore, that its functions are somewhat allied with those of the Redevelopment Agency.

"It hasn't worked out," the supervisor said. "We have to look at the possibility of reorganization and inclusion as part of county government."

The Housing Authority is an autonomous agency, whose members are appointed by the Board of Supervisors, while the members of the Board of Supervisors serve as directors of the Redevelopment Agency.

Fitzgerald suggested that it might be feasible to bring the agencies together and create a county department of housing and community development.

To that end, County Manager M. D. Tardies has been asked by Fitzgerald to study the matter and to come back with a recommendation and report sometime in January.

A proposal similar to that advanced by Fitzgerald was last July by County Planning Director Donald A. Woolfe in recommending inclusion of the Interim Housing Element as a part of the County General Plan.

In a related matter, the Board of Supervisors is studying the possibility of early screening of candidates for appointment to two additional positions authorized for the Housing Authority next March.

A new state law provides that a senior citizen and a tenant of a Housing Authority unit be appointed.

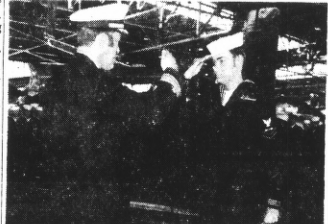

Supervisor Jean Fassler has suggested that interested groups submit names of candidates for early screening and selection in order that those named can sit as observers on the authority before actually joining as members in March.

Mrs. Fassler, whose present appointee to the Authority, Bernard J. Albrecht, has not been reapointed since his term expired last March, has yet to decide on whether to reappoint him or to nominate a new member.

Albrecht has been serving on an interim basis.

There has been some agitation for the appointment of a tenant or senior citizen representative to replace Albrecht.

He had lived in San Bruno virtually all of his life and participated in many of its community activities over the years.

He is survived by two brothers, James W. Bedford, once one of San Bruno's two police officers but now of Sugar Pine, and Irvin Bedford of San Carlos. He also had some nephews and nieces in San Bruno.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 11 a.m. from the Chapel of the Highlands in Millbrae, followed by interment at Olive Memorial Park.

Coast Group Appointments Considered

Now that Proposition 20, the Coastal Protection Initiative, has become law, the jockeying has begun for appointments to the state and six regional coastal commissions.

Such was the case Saturday at a meeting of the California Coastal Alliance in Burlingame, in which the conservationist group made its preferences known for this region, which includes San Mateo, Santa Cruz and Monterey counties.

Naturally it is sprinkled with prominent conservationists, who could serve on the 16-member Central Coast Regional Commission and whose names will be submitted this week to State Senate President Pro Tem James Mills, Assembly Speaker Robert Mervin and Governor Ronald Reagan.

Those nominated from San Mateo County include: To the state board, Melvin Lane, publisher of Sunset magazine in Menlo Park and Mrs. Janet Adams of Woodside, state chairman of the California Coastal Alliance.

He is a member of the largest freshman class in the history of the academy, now in its eighth year of operation with a current total enrollment of more than 1,000 cadets.

He Passes Bar at Age 22

Michael Galligan, oldest son of San Bruno City Attorney Joseph Galligan, has passed the state bar examination — at age 22.

He will be the youngest of the over 2,000 successful law graduates who will be admitted to practice by the State Supreme Court on December 13 swearing in ceremonies.

Mike went to high school all Bellarmine in San Jose, and received his bachelors degree in economics at the University of San Francisco.

He graduate from the USF law school this past June, completing the normal eleven years of work toward that goal in eight years.

Everything has not been all study and no play with you. Mike started his athletic career in 1962 playing halfback with the San Bruno Rams' youth football team. He went on to captain the 1971 USF soccer team, which played in the Orange Bowl national finals.

10-14-year-old boys from San Mike is presently coaching the "Bombers," a Mid-Peninsula A.Y.S.G. soccer team made up of Bruno, Millbrae and Burlingame. He also plays soccer for the San Francisco Vikings.

Postal Workers Establish Alliance Youth Program

William (Bill) Patton, president of the San Francisco Local 1008 of the National Alliance of Postal and Federal Employees, has announced the formation of an Alliance Youth Program.

Patton said that he believed it to be the first type of program for a postal union anywhere in the country.

He said that the program is basically one of seeking out disadvantaged youth between the ages 9 through 18, to teach and train them to become productive civic minded citizens prior to attaining adulthood.

He stressed that even though his labor union, with national offices based in Washington, D.C., and locals located throughout the United States including Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, is predominantly Black, their search is for all culturally disadvantaged youth regardless of color.

Patton said that he expects more than 300 regular participants will soon be assembled in the program.

and organized along the same lines of a functional labor union whereby the youth will elect their own officers. He stressed that he did not intend that Local 1008, nor the Women's Auxiliary, under the leadership of President Elaine Lovett, and Liaison Officer Marce C. Davis, would become a "baby-sitting" group, but to teach civic responsibility through "self help" and self government in hopes of drastically cutting down the rate of juvenile delinquency.

Funds that are being used to start the program are obtained primarily from social functions of the union and auxiliary. He said his union has established a Scholarship Fund along with a membership retirement-welfare benefit fund whereby deserving youth are presently being given industrial scholarships.

All contributions or inquiries to this program should be sent to Women's Auxiliary President Elaine Lovett, N.A.P.F.E., P.O. Box 3545, San Francisco, Ca. 94119.

Thanksgiving Day services open to the public will be held Thursday at all Churches of Christ, Scientist, in the area.

The service at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 461 Linden Avenue, San Bruno will start at 11 a.m.

Keynoting the lesson-sermon on "Thanksgiving" is this passage from the Bible: "Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

The nature of true gratitude is emphasized in commentary to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including this citation:

"Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech."

Hymns of gratitude, including "Praise We The Lord," "Our Tribute, Thanksgiving," and "A Grateful Heart A Garden Is," will be sung by the congregation.

There is no clergy in the Church of Christ, Scientist. The service will be conducted by Dorothy Heisinger, the First Reader and John Dianich, the Second Reader.

"Bring Ye All The Tribes Into The Storehouse" will be sung by the soloist Mary Baxter, accompanied by Catherine Neiman, the organist.

Individual expressions of gratitude by members of the congregation will be a feature of the service. No collection of any kind will be taken, and all are invited to attend.

A MESSAGE TO PENINSULA AUTOMOBILE BUYERS

You may wonder why Lee Oldsmobile/American is closed on Sunday when most other Burlingame dealers are open

The answer is people. Our people. Our sales staff and their families want to enjoy a day together each week, as you do. They feel that Sunday is the right day of the week for families to share... and so do I.

Please see us Monday through Saturday. You'll notice the difference.

Sincerely,

Mike Mulvey
President
